COACHING TRAINING AND TRANSLATING SERVICES

Training

You have language proficiency... but can you speak the language of effective business communication?

In order to successfully compete in today's global market you need to understand more than the ABCs of English - more than the correct usage of the present, past and perfect tenses.

Our training courses go beyond traditional language courses. Using a range of innovative group structures, we focus on promoting and developing professional interpersonal communication skills in English within a professional setting. The business skills you need, from presenting to negotiating, from moderating to writing, are the skills we will help you develop - not only in English.
